What Is The Data Flow?

The flow" of data through an information system that shows what kind of information will be input to and output from the system, how the data will advance through the system, where the data will be stored and ensure the people using the information are consulted on the practical implications. By mapping the flow of data, we have identified any unforeseen or unintended uses. A data flow map also helps us consider the parties that will be using the information and the potential future uses of any data processed.

What Data Items Are Being Processed?

We only ever need basic personal information, which does not include any special types of information, and we never collect personal information about you from other companies. All personal data is provided by you.

This allows us to identify your quotation.

How Is the Data Stored?

Your security comes first in everything we do. If your data is not secure, it is not private. The APG COVER GDPR Data Storage Policy provides detailed information of how and where your data is stored.

Accountability

The GDPR introduces a duty for the appointment of a data protection officer (DPO) to assist in monitoring internal compliance, inform and advise on data protection obligations, provide advice regarding Data Protection Impact Assessments (DPIAs) and act as a contact point for data subjects and the supervisory authority. The APG COVER GDPR Data Protection Officer Policy provides detailed information.

Access

The APG COVER GDPR Privacy Policy identifies how we use your personal information, reasons and our legitimate interest.

Identifying Appropriate Technical And Organisational Safeguards

The APG COVER GDPR Data Storage Policy identifies the technology and procedures for its use to protect your information and determining who controls access to it. The APG COVER Information Security Policy identifies that information stored and processed by The Company, or on behalf of The Company, in any form and any location, is securely protected against the consequences of breaches of confidentiality, failures of integrity or interruptions to the availability of that information.

More Information
